WWI public engagement centre

Keith Lilley

Queen's University Belfast

k.lilley@qub.ac.uk

WWI public engagement centre

Keith Lilley

Queen's University Belfast

k.lilley@qub.ac.uk

What 'Living Legacies 1914-18' can do for you...

- Help develop projects and provide guidance on researching WWI / FWW heritage and archaeology.
- Access wider research networks, including museums and universities, and collaborate on projects.
- Provide community groups with access to expertise, equipment and resources to produce exciting and informed archaeological research.
- Advise on methods, techniques, funding, research topics, depositing data and research findings, exhibiting and publishing.

Who we are and what we each do:

- Prof Keith Lilley, Director, Living Legacies 1914-18 (k.lilley@qub.ac.uk)
- Elaine Reid, Project Manager, Living Legacies 1914-18 and CDDA (elaine.reid@qub.ac.uk)
- Dr Heather Montgomery, Material Cultures and Archaeology Project Officer, Living Legacies 1914-18
- Clare Ablett, Museums Engagement Officer, NMNI and Living Legacies 1914-18
- David Hardy, Digital Technologies and Digitisation, CDDA, Queen's University Belfast
- Tony Anderson, Digital Technologies and Digitisation, CDDA, Queen's University Belfast
- Dr Siobhán McDermott, Archaeological Survey and GIS, Centre for Archaeological Fieldwork (CAF), QUB

- WW1 public engagement centre
- Three research themes
- Strategic partners
- Collaborations
- Public engagement and WW1
- Projects
- Resources
- Outputs and legacies

The centenary of WW1 – an opportunity

University

Connected Communities Programme and Care for the Future Theme: Call for Co-ordinating Centres for Community Research and Engagement to Commemorate the Centenary of the First World War

- WW1 public engagement centre
- Three research themes
- Strategic partners
- Collaborations
- Public engagement and WW1
- Projects
- Resources
- Outputs and legacies

FROM PAST CONFLICT TO SHARED FUTURE

Home | Join Us | News | Events | Community Resources | Digital Archive | Contact Us | Newsletter |

Community Resources

Digital Archive

"Living Legacies 1914-18" provides communities with access to information, expertise and support for projects that explore the impacts that World War One had in Britain and Ireland, and the war's continuing legacies today.

We are interested in working with community groups from across Great Britain and Northern Ireland whose projects involve researching and commemorating WW1. We provide communities with links to university researchers nationwide to share ideas and resources.

Our expertise on WW1 includes topics such as drama, story-telling, digitisation, archaeology, exhibitions, and memorials. Our web-pages provide more details about what we do and how we can help your WW1 community project.

Please do contact us for further information Living Legacies Centre or access themes below.

- WW1 public engagement centre
- Three research themes
- Strategic partners
- Collaborations
- Public engagement and WW1
- Projects
- Resources
- Outputs and legacies

Working with communities

 Co-production of commemorative research activities and sharing sectorspecific skills – HLF Projects in Northern Ireland & Living Legacies 1914-18

- WW1 public engagement centre
- Three research themes
- Strategic partners
- Collaborations
- Public engagement and WW1
- Projects
- Resources
- Outputs and legacies

Community engagement

5 years of roadshows, workshops, outreach events, training, performances, object identification, walking tours, networking, excavations, exhibiting, etc

- WW1 public engagement centre
- Three research themes
- Strategic partners
- Collaborations
- Public engagement and WW1
- Projects
- Resources
- Outputs and legacies

Case studies: Working with partners and communities

 sharing sector-specific skills, 'Defence Heritage Project' web-mapping platform and crowd-sourcing, with Department of Environment (NI) Heritage Services

Defence Heritage Project (DHP)

- Collaboration between "Living Legacies 1914-18" and Historic Environment Division (HED), Department for Communities
- Crowdsourcing project
- Reboot for WW1 centenary
- Source of information on defence heritage in NI
- Updating of existing records
- Ground-truthing and site recording
- New sites and records as legacy including WW1 aviation sites...
- Living Legacies workshops using geospatial technologies

DEFENCE HERITAGE PROJECT

Link to Download Android, Linux or Windows Mob

DEFENCE HERITAGE CATEGORIES

Department for Communities

www.communities-ni.gov.uk

DEFENCE HERITAGE SUB CATEGORIES

Defence Hentage Partner

Explore Northern Ireland's rich defence heritage

Northern Ireland's defence heritage represents a significant cultural legacy. There are many 20th-century defensive structures dotted around the countryside and coast of Northern Ireland. These include training trenches, gun and searchlight emplacements, pillboxes, observation posts, airfields, harbours, naval and flying boat bases, air raid shelters, and many other related structures. The majority of these are derelict, some have been reused or altered, and others are in a state of decay or have been demolished.

The purpose of this web-mapping resource is:

- To raise public awareness of the locations of defence heritage sites in Northern Ireland;
- To provide a tool for finding defence heritage sites and researching them;
- To gather new information about defence heritage sites in Northern Ireland.

New Defence Heritage Submissions

Where next...?

Visit our web-site:

www.livinglegacies1914-18.ac.uk

Get in touch by email: LivingLegacies@qub.ac.uk

Or by phone: +44 (0)28 9097 3725